

The Family of Granville Wood and Lodoska Cummings

by Deborah A. Carl

Woodlawn Cemetery in Nashua, New Hampshire, situated between East and West Hollis Streets, was created from land sold to the City of Nashua in 1848. Land continued to be added to the cemetery and it grew to be just under 40 acres. In 1895 it had around 12,000 graves, including the remains transferred from the Spring Street cemetery when it was closed in 1872. In 2022, there were just under 19,000 known graves. The city's burial database is not complete as many of the pre-1895 records are missing. Some headstones are not included in that database. Thanks to the volunteers with Find A Grave and BillionGraves, they are being documented. Pick any grave and there's a story to tell.

The son of Granville Wood and Lodoska Cummings was born in 1867 in Nashua, New Hampshire. He lived 30 minutes before dying of cyanosis which refers to bluish skin resulting from poor circulation or inadequate oxygenation of the blood.

The child was not given a name and the stone states he was the only son of G.P. and L.K. Wood. On the birth record, his parents were Granville P. and Lodosky Wood and their gravestone's about four feet away.

Lodoska was about 38 years old when her son was born. Women at this time stopped having children around age 40 so it was no surprise that this child was her last. He was also her second child, her first child having been born seven years earlier.

Granville and Lodoska married in Nashua in 1859. Granville was 26 years old and Lodoska was 30. It was the first marriage for both of them. In 1855 Granville had been living in Lowell working as a butcher, and in 1860, he was in Nashua working as a butcher. Perhaps Lodoska met him when she went shopping.

Their first child, Hattie was born in 1860 in Nashua, New Hampshire. As the years passed, they probably didn't expect to have any more children so they were probably tentatively joyful when Lodoska conceived in 1866 at age 38 and the pregnancy progressed successfully. At that age, a great many things could go wrong. They hadn't chosen a name for the child, or if they had, they didn't give it to him. Perhaps they thought Lodoska would conceive again.

Consumption, the common name for tuberculosis, was responsible for about one-quarter of the deaths in New England until antibiotics became available in the mid-1940s. Hattie died of TB, just shy of her 18th birthday. Most patients lingered for two to five years. The young woman, pale and thin with skin glowing from fever, was considered beautiful.

Granville and Lodoska probably were not thinking their only child looked beautiful, they probably looked at her as she wasted away, with broken hearts knowing they would never see her fall in love, never see her as a happy bride or a loving mother with children of her own. When they buried her, they also buried any hope of sharing their love with grandchildren.

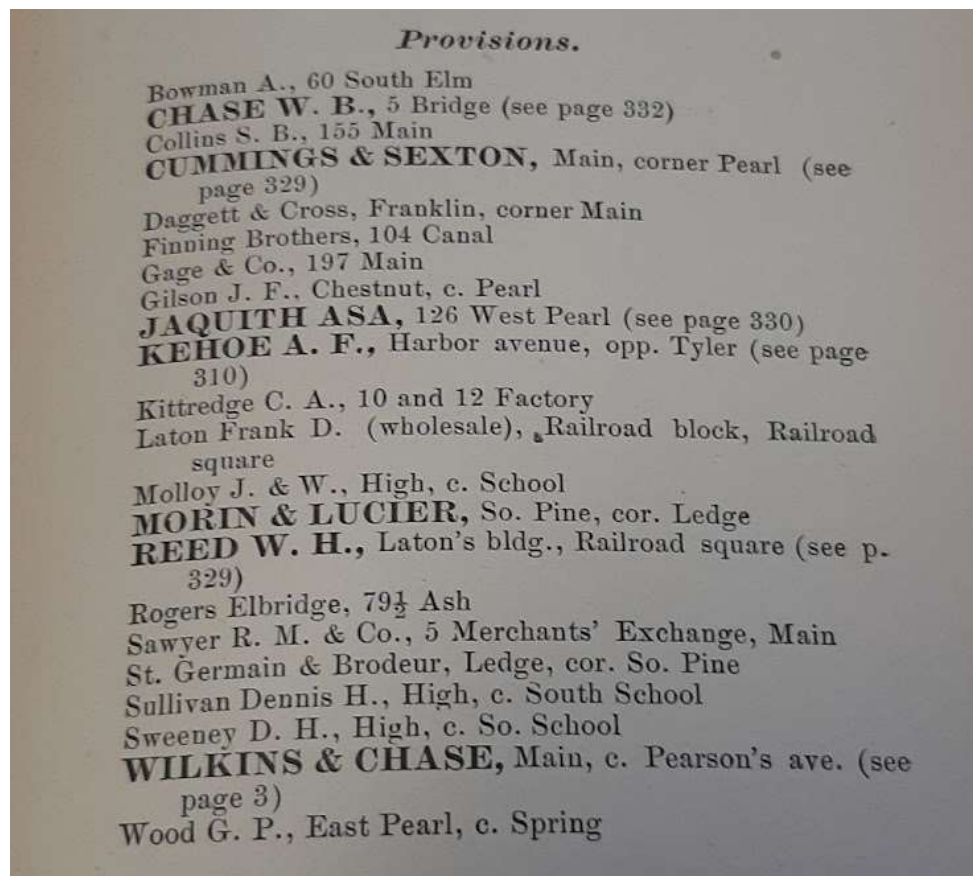

There were no nursing homes. Family was expected to take care of the elderly. Living with a child or grandchild would be easier than living with a niece or grand-nephew. A hidden question in Granville and Lodoska's hearts was probably what will happen when we get old?

Lodoska's parents were still living on their own at ages 74 and 78, so the family had probably had conversations about what to do when Mom and Dad would not be able to care for themselves or when they died. Dad, Moses Cummings, died of paralysis in Dedham, Massachusetts in 1880. There are many causes of paralysis, but the most likely cause in this case was a stroke. None of his children were living in Dedham and the decision was made to bury him in the Wood family plot in Nashua, New Hampshire near Hattie and her infant brother.

After her husband's death, Sally Cummings, most likely moved to Tisbury, Massachusetts to live with her son Augustus Cummings where she died at the age of 90. She was buried with her husband in the Wood family plot in Nashua, New Hampshire.

Granville Wood ran a provisions shop on the corner of East Pearl and Spring Streets. He and Lodoska lived at 32 Franklin Street which is now a parking lot.

Granville died in 1887 of paralysis in Nashua, New Hampshire.

The now widowed Lodoska was alone with the exception of her brother Augustus. As a widow, her choices for support were limited, she could live off the money her husband left her (if any), live with her brother or other relative, find another husband, or at age 58, engage in one of the acceptable women's jobs - teacher, dressmaker, laundress, housekeeper, factory worker, or domestic servant. Lodoska chose dressmaker and operated her shop out of her home at 20 Granite Street. About February 1904 she fractured her hip and arm. It could have been caused by osteoporosis, but it was February, and could have also been from a fall on the ice. She was taken to the hospital where she remained for three months before dying from the shock of her injuries at age 75. On May 7th, 1904 she was buried with her family.

Sources:

Edward E. Parker, History of the City of Nashua, N.H. From the Earliest Settlement of Old Dunstable to the Year 1895, (Nashua, NH: Telegraph Publishing Company, 1897), p. 197, imaged at Nashua Public Library (<https://nashualibrary.org/wp-content/uploads/2022/10/p2bios-cemeteries.pdf> : accessed 18 July 2023), Explore > Local History > The Parker History of Nashua (© 1895) > The Cemeteries – Ancient and Modern, image 31 of 40.

Conversation with Paul Fournier, Superintendent Woodlawn/Pinewood Cemeteries, 18 July 2023, with Deborah A. Carl.

"New Hampshire Birth Records, Early to 1900," database with images, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:S3HT-6249-HNY> : accessed 18 July 2023), 004244323 > image 3457 of 4885, death card with no name found with the Wood cards with the given names that start with G, dated 12 February 1867; Bureau of Vital Records and Health Statistics, Concord.

"New Hampshire, Town Clerk, Vital and Town Records, 1636-1947," database with images, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:3QS7-L9XF-JRGS> : accessed 18 July 2023), 007578108, image 166 of 740, p. 2, third entry from bottom, death of Wood child who lived ½ hour, dated 12 February 1867; New Hampshire Bureau of Vital Records and Statistics, Concord.

"New Hampshire Marriage Records, 1637-1947," database, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:S3HY-6QZW-QKZ> : accessed 18 July 2023), 004243236, image 5025 of 5165, card for Granville P. Wood and Lodaska K. Cummings dated 10 January 1859; Bureau of Vital Records and Health Statistics, Concord.

"Massachusetts State Census, 1855," database with images, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:S3HT-6WK9-FYD> : accessed 18 July 2023), Middlesex > Lowell > image 342 of 499, unpaginated, right-hand page, line 30, entry for Granville P. Wood; State Archives, Boston.

1860 U.S. census, Hillsborough County, New Hampshire, population schedule, Ward 1 City of Nashua, p. 29, database with images, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:33SQ-GBSZ-9PXN> : accessed 18 July 2023), New Hampshire > Hillsborough > Ward 1 City of Nashua > image 29 of 29, dwell. 238, fam.

244, line 37, Granville P. Woods household; citing NARA microfilm publication M653, roll 673.

Ancestry, Find A Grave, database with images (<https://www.findagrave.com/memorial/159677870/hattie-a-wood> : accessed 18 July 2023), memorial 159677870, Hattie A. Wood (1860-1878), Woodlawn Cemetery, Nashua, Hillsborough, New Hampshire; gravestone photograph by Deborah Carl.

"New Hampshire Death Records, 1654-1947," database with images, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:S3HY-DY6S-B36> : accessed 18 July 2023), 004244248, image 1077 of 5046, card for Hattie A. Wood, dated 13 August 1878; Bureau Vital Records and Health Statistics, Concord.

For a Future Without Tuberculosis, TB Alert (<https://www.tbalert.org/about-tb/tb-in-time/tb-timeline/> : accessed 18 July 2023).

"The Disease That Killed the Young and the Beautiful," Mary Fuhrer, HistoryNet (<https://www.historynet.com/the-young-and-the-beautiful/> : accessed 18 July 2023).

1880 U.S. census, Worcester County, Massachusetts, population schedule, Leominster, ED 849, p. 4, database with images, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:33S7-9YBZ-7TP> : accessed 18 July 2023), Massachusetts > Worcester > Leominster > ED 849 > image 4 of 53, dwell. 31, fam. 41, line 3, Moses Cummings household; citing NARA microfilm publication T9, roll 565.

"Massachusetts Deaths, 1841-1915, 1921-1924," images, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:S3HT-63T7-1KK> : accessed 18 July 2023), 004221433, image 658 of 755, handwritten p. 224, no. 46, entry for Moses Cummings dated 21 May 1880; State Archives, Boston.

"Massachusetts Marriages, 1841-1915," database with images, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:S3HT-6PV3-HPG> : accessed 18 July 2023), 004279727, image 737 of 1060, p. 217, line 8, marriage of Augustus F Cummins living in Tisbury, the son of Moses and Sally Cummings, dated 9 October 1890; State Archives, Boston.

"Massachusetts, U.S., Death Records, 1841-1915," database with images, Ancestry (<https://www.ancestry.com/discoveryui-content/view/115399:2101> : accessed 18 July 2023), image 292 of 1949, p. 304, no. 23, entry for Sally Cummings dated 25 July 1892; New England Historic Genealogical Society, Boston, Massachusetts.

Nashua City Directory, 1885-6, p. 182, entry for Granville Wood; Nashua Historical Society, New Hampshire.

"New Hampshire Death Records, 1654-1947," database with images, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:S3HY-DYX3-Y4> : accessed 18 July 2023), 004244248, image 1041 of 5046, card for Granville P. Wood, dated 11 August 1887; Bureau Vital Records and Health Statistics, Concord.

Nashua City Directory, 1892, p. 274, entry for Lodoska Wood, p. 296, entry for her dressmaking business; Nashua Historical Society, New Hampshire.

"New Hampshire Death Records, 1654-1947," database with images, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/ark:/61903/3:1:S3HT-6733-6D9> : accessed 18 July 2023), 004243434, image 2946 of 3102, card for Lodoska K. Wood, dated 4 May 1904; Bureau Vital Records and Health Statistics, Concord.

Illustrations:

Scène d'octobre: la jeune pointrinaire / d'après R. Robinson, 1864 wood print, Library of Congress (<https://www.loc.gov/item/2003662015/> : accessed 18 July 2023).

Nashua City Directory, 1885-6, p. 277, Business Section, Provisions, entry for G. P. Wood; Nashua Historical Society, New Hampshire.

Woodlawn Cemetery photos by John and Deborah Carl.

Notes:

According to FamilySearch, Hattie Wood and her unnamed brother are my step 6th cousins 4x removed through their mother Lodoska Knight

Cummings, and my step-great-great grandfather, William Tyler Brown. This might not be correct and needs to be verified. Contributors to FamilySearch range from 12-year-olds to professionals with varying skill levels.